Hello

In the Complete Peerage under Haudlo it is mentioned that John Haudlo died Dec. 1343 married before 16 Dec. 1330 to Isabel daughter of Aumarie de St. Amand.

Now I have seen various pedigrees online that show Isabel to be the daughter of John de St. Amand by his wife Margaret le Despenser. So could the Complete Peerage be wrong in stating that Isabel was the daughter of Aumarie de St. Amand?

Would anyone know who the real parents are for Isabel de St. Amand the wife of John Haudlo and did this Isabel have any brothers and if so did they have any children themselves?

I am trying to work out how the St. Amand coat of arms ended up being quartered by the Haudlo family as these arms are shown together in a full heraldic achievement by a descendant and I have worked out that these 2 quarterings can only have been brought in by Elizabeth de Haudlo who was a wife of Edmund de La Pole. Elizabeth de Haudlo was a sister and co. heiress of Edmund de Haudlo and was a daughter of Richard de Haudlo by his wife Isabel de St. Amand.

If anyone can help me with Isabel de St. Amand I will be very grateful.

Jamie

Per Jim Weber's site (<http://wc.rootsweb.ancestry.com/cgi-bin/igm.cgi?op=GET&db=jweber&id=I32035>): "Note: Brice Clagett, Douglas Richardson, and others on SGM, state that CP is wrong above. Isabel was sister of Aumauri, and daughter of John 2nd Lord de St. Amand."

Further to my request. I forgot to mention that the source/note attached as given to Isabel de St. Amand's father being Aumarie de St. Amand in the Complete Peerage is:- Kennet, Parochial Antiquities, Vol ii, p.121, quoting Dodsworth MS.

Can anyone give any more sources to the father of Isabel as being Aumarie de St. Amand or provide any sources that states/shows that Isabel's parents were John de St. Amand by Margaret le Despenser???

Search of SGM for: "Wahull to Osbaldeston: the manor of Chadlington," the thread I mentioned in my previous post.

Dear Jamie ~

In answer to your question, as you suspected, Complete Peerage is in error regarding the parentage of Isabel de Saint Amand, wife of Sir Richard de Haudlo. The error probably originates from the published Visitation of Oxfordshire where Isabel is incorrectly identified as "da. of Sir Aymer de St. Amond." The Haudlo and Saint Amand families are discussed in some detail in Boarstall Cartulary by Salter, which material I recommend you read. Mr. Salter sets forth the evidence which proves that Isabel de Saint Amand was the daughter of Sir John de Saint Amand, Knt., by his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir Hugh le Despenser, Knt., Earl of Winchester. Elsewhere you can find an abstract of the marriage contract of Isabel's parents, John and Margaret, dated 4 Dec. 1313 in Descriptive Catalogue of Ancient Deeds 4 (1902): 525. This record is available for viewing at the following weblink:

<http://books.google.com/books?id=h-IrAAAAIAAJ&pg=RA2-PA525&dq=Margaret+Despenser+Amand>

For interest's sake, I've copied below my current file account of Isabel de Saint Amand and her parents, John de Saint Amand and Margaret le Despenser. I've supplied all of my references.

I trust this answers your question.

Best always, Douglas Richardson, Salt Lake City, Utah

ROGER LE BIGOD, Earl of Norfolk, married IDA DE TONY.

HUGH LE BIGOD, Earl of Norfolk, married MAUD MARSHAL.

ISABEL LE BIGOD, married JOHN FITZ GEOFFREY, Knt., of Shere, Surrey.

MAUD FITZ JOHN, married WILLIAM DE BEAUCHAMP, Earl of Warwick.

ISABEL DE BEAUCHAMP, married HUGH LE DESPENSER, Knt., Earl of Winchester [see DESPENSER 5].

6. MARGARET LE DESPENSER, married before 20 Feb. 1314/5 (by marriage settlement dated 4 Dec. 1313) JOHN DE SAINT AMAND, Knt., of West Woodhay, Berkshire, Houghton Conquest, Bedfordshire, Catton, Derbyshire, Ipplepen, Devon, Cerney, Gloucestershire, and Gormanston, co. Meath, Ireland, younger son of Amaury de Saint Amand, of Millbrook, Bedfordshire, West Woodhay, Berkshire, and Gormanston, co. Meath, Ireland. He was born about 1280/83 (aged 27 or 30 in 1310). They had one son, Amaury, Knt. [3rd Lord Saint Amand] and one daughter, Isabel. He was heir in 1310 to his brother, Amaury de Saint Amand, 1st Lord Saint Amand, by which he inherited half the barony of Cainhoe, Bedfordshire. He was summoned to Parliament from 8 Jan. 1312/3 to 10 October 1325, by writs directed Johanni de Sancto Amando. He was summoned against the Scots in 1315 and 1323. In Feb. 1318/9 he was going overseas on service with his father-in-law, Hugh le Despenser the elder. In 1320 he was expelled from his manor of Houghton Conquest, Bedfordshire by Richard Fitz Richard with "a great force of armed men." SIR JOHN DE SAINT AMAND, 2nd Lord St. Amand, died shortly before 25 Jan. 1329/30. His wife, Margaret, predeceased him.

I have now read with interest the thread regarding "Wahull to Osbaldeston: the manor of Chadlington," and I see that the legitimate descendants of Aumarie de St. Amand, 3rd Lord (the now sister of Isabel) became extinct on the death of Richard Beauchamp d.s.p. in 1508.

If the descendants of Aumarie de St. Amand, 3rd Lord became extinct in 1508 and that there are descendants alive of Aumarie's only sister Isabel who was the wife of Richard Haudlo then would the descendants of Isabel and Richard Haudlo from 1508 be entitled to add the quartering of St. Amand in right of being the heir(s) of both Aumarie de St. Amand, 3rd Lord (whose issue and descendants became extinct) and also of John de St. Amand, 2nd Lord the father of both Aumarie de St. Amand and Isabel de St. Amand the wife of Richard Haudlo???

This would explain how the de. St. Amand quartering came to be added by a descendant of Richard Haudlo and Isabel de St. Amand.

Regards

Jamie
