

C.P. Addition: Ida, wife of Roger Bertram, Robert de Neville, & John Fitz Marmaduke

 groups.google.com/g/soc.genealogy.medieval/c/2gAQAwI6nGI/m/s3LhLHPzq_YJ

Skip to first unread message

Douglas Richardson royalancestry@msn.com

unread,

Apr 12, 2005, 6:57:52 AM

to

Dear Newsgroup:

Complete Peerage 2 (1912): 158-162 (sub Bertram) and 9 (1936): 495-486 (sub Neville) includes well written accounts of the the life histories of Roger Bertram (living 1272), of Mitford, Northumberland, and Robert de Neville, Knt. (died 1282), of Raby, Durham, the first and second husbands respectively of a certain woman named Ida, whose parentage is not stated by Complete Peerage. Hedley's Northumberland Families (1968): 224-229 provides good evidence which indicates that Ida was the daughter of Robert de Roos, of Wark, Northumberland (died c. 1269). Ida's father, Robert de Roos, is commonly thought to have married Christine Bertram, sister of Ida's husband, Roger Bertram. However, Hedley shows that Christine Bertram actually married Ida's brother, William de Roos. Thus a Roos brother and sister married a Bertram brother and sister.

Following the death of her 2nd husband, Sir Robert de Neville, Complete Peerage indicates that Ida de Roos married (3rd) before 8 May 1285 Sir John Fitz Marmaduke, of Horden, Durham. Complete Peerage sub Betram and Neville gives no death date for Ida. Rather, in both accounts, Complete Peerage states only that Ida was living 18 May 1315.

The following charter proves that Ida (de Roos) (Bertram) (de Neville) Fitz Marmaduke was still living as late as 17 August 1320, she having by that time survived her third husband, Sir John Fitz Marmaduke:

"Sunday after the Assumption, 14 Edward II (17 August 1320). Charter indented (in French) of Robert de Holande, Knt., granting to her very dear lord, Sir Thomas Earl of Lancaster and Leicester, for life, the manors of Hordene, Silkesworth, Carlebury and Ulneby and all other lands which he has in the counties of Durham and Sadberg, with the advowsons and franchises; granting also that the lands which dame Alianore widow of Sir Richard son of John Fitz Marmaduk and Dame Ida de Neville hold in dower of the lands which were of Sir Richard, which after their decease ought to remain to the grantor and his heirs, shall remain to the said eart for life; remainder to the grantor and his heirs. Witnesses, Sir William Touchet, Sir Adam de Hudleston, Sir John de Beek, Sir Odard Heroun, Sir Robert de Byncestre, Sir Gascelin Deyvill, Sir Begon Bayhouse. Pountfret. XXX, 136v." END OF QUOTE. [Reference: Oliver, Northumberland & Durham Deeds (Newcastle-upon-Tyne Recs. Comm. 7) (1929): 287].

Ida de Roos has no known descendants. However, there are many New World immigrants who descend from her 2nd and 3rd husbands, Robert de Neville and John Fitz Marmaduke, by their previous marriages to other women. Further particulars of all of these families can be found in my forthcoming book, Magna Carta Ancestry.

Best always, Douglas Richardson, Salt Lake City, Utah

Website: www.royalancestry.net

randy...@gmail.com

unread,

Apr 12, 2005, 2:49:10 PM

☐

☐

☐

to

Did Roger Bertram also have a first wife Joan (_____) by whom he had a daughter Ada (b.c.1245) who had present day descendents?

-- Randy Jones

☐

"Douglas Richardson royala...@msn.com" <royala...@msn.com> wrote:
Dear Newsgroup:

☐

Complete Peerage 2 (1912): 158-162 (sub Bertram) and 9 (1936): 495-486 (sub Neville) includes well written accounts of the the life histories of Roger Bertram (living 1272), of Mitford, Northumberland, and Robert de Neville, Knt. (died 1282), of Raby, Durham, the first and second husbands respectively of a certain woman named Ida, whose parentage is not stated by Complete Peerage. Hedley's Northumberland Families (1968): 224-229 provides good evidence which indicates that Ida was the daughter of Robert de Roos, of Wark, Northumberland (died c. 1269). Ida's father, Robert de Roos, is commonly thought to have married Christine Bertram, sister of Ida's husband, Roger Bertram. However, Hedley shows that Christine Bertram actually married Ida's brother, William de Roos. Thus a Roos brother and sister married a Bertram brother and sister.

☐

Following the death of her 2nd husband, Sir Robert de Neville, Complete Peerage indicates that Ida de Roos married (3rd) before 8 May 1285 Sir John Fitz Marmaduke, of Horden, Durham. Complete Peerage sub Betram and Neville gives no death date for Ida. Rather, in both accounts, Complete Peerage states only that Ida was living 18 May 1315.

☐

The following charter proves that Ida (de Roos) (Bertram) (de Neville) Fitz Marmaduke was still living as late as 17 August 1320, she having by that time survived her third husband, Sir John Fitz Marmaduke:

☐

"Sunday after the Assumption, 14 Edward II (17 August 1320).
Charter indented (in French) of Robert de Holande, Knt., granting to her very dear lord, Sir Thomas Earl of Lancaster and Leicester, for life, the manors of Hordene, Silkesworth, Carlebury and Ulneby and all other lands which he has in the counties of Durham and Sadberg, with the advowsons and franchises; granting also that the lands which dame Alianore widow of Sir Richard son of John Fitz Marmaduk and Dame Ida de Neville hold in dower of the lands which were of Sir Richard, which after their decease ought to remain to the grantor and his heirs, shall remain to the said eart for life; remainder to the grantor and his heirs. Witnesses, Sir William Touchet, Sir Adam de Hudleston, Sir John de Beek, Sir Odard Heroun, Sir Robert de Byncestre, Sir Gascelin Deyvill, Sir Begon Bayhouse. Pountfret. XXX, 136v." END OF QUOTE. [Reference: Oliver, Northumberland & Durham Deeds (Newcastle-upon-Tyne Recs. Comm. 7) (1929): 287].

□

Ida de Roos has no known descendants. However, there are many New World immigrants who descend from her 2nd and 3rd husbands, Robert de Neville and John Fitz Marmaduke, by their previous marriages to other women. Further particulars of all of these families can be found in my forthcoming book, Magna Carta Ancestry.

□

Best always, Douglas Richardson, Salt Lake City, Utah

Website: www.royalancestry.net

Do you Yahoo!?

Yahoo! Small Business - Try our new resources site!

roger_...@ksg04.harvard.edu

unread,

Apr 15, 2005, 10:13:45 PM

□

□

□

to

Dear Randy,

My information would appear to refer to an earlier Roger Bertram, but I have a Sir Roger Bertram, lord of Mitford, Northumberland, d. 1242, with daughters Ada and Isabel by an unknown wife. Ada married a Sir Simon de Vere of Coxhill, Lincolnshire. Isabel married a Sir Philip d'Arcy. Philip died shortly before 28 May 1264. My information comes from two books, both written by Carl Boyer III as follows: Medieval English Ancestors of Robert Abell, 75; Medieval English Ancestors of Certain Americans, 27, 250.

Hope this is of some use,

Roger

□

Randy Jones wrote:

> Did Roger Bertram also have a first wife Joan (____) by whom he had a daughter Ada (b.c.1245) who had present day descendents?

>

> -- Randy Jones

>

> "Douglas Richardson royala...@msn.com" <royala...@msn.com>

wrote:

> Dear Newsgroup:

>

> Complete Peerage 2 (1912): 158-162 (sub Bertram) and 9 (1936): 495-486

> (sub Neville) includes well written accounts of the the life histories

> of Roger Bertram (living 1272), of Mitford, Northumberland, and Robert

> de Neville, Knt. (died 1282), of Raby, Durham, the first and second > husbands respectively of a certain woman named Ida, whose parentage is > not stated by Complete Peerage. Hedley's Northumberland Families

> (1968): 224-229 provides good evidence which indicates that Ida was > the daughter of Robert de Roos, of Wark, Northumberland (died c. 1269).

> Ida's father, Robert de Roos, is commonly thought to have married

> Christine Bertram, sister of Ida's husband, Roger Bertram. However,

> Hedley shows that Christine Bertram actually married Ida's brother,

- > William de Roos. Thus a Roos brother and sister married a Bertram
- > brother and sister.
- >
- > Following the death of her 2nd husband, Sir Robert de Neville, Complete
- > Peerage indicates that Ida de Roos married (3rd) before 8 May 1285
Sir
- > John Fitz Marmaduke, of Horden, Durham. Complete Peerage sub Betram
- > and Neville gives no death date for Ida. Rather, in both accounts,
- > Complete Peerage states only that Ida was living 18 May 1315.
- >
- > The following charter proves that Ida (de Roos) (Bertram) (de Neville)
- > Fitz Marmaduke was still living as late as 17 August 1320, she having
- > by that time survived her third husband, Sir John Fitz Marmaduke:
- >
- > "Sunday after the Assumption, 14 Edward II (17 August 1320).
- > Charter indented (in French) of Robert de Holande, Knt., granting to
- > her very dear lord, Sir Thomas Earl of Lancaster and Leicester, for
- > life, the manors of Hordene, Silkesworth, Carlebury and Ulneby and all
- > other lands which he has in the counties of Durham and Sadberg, with
- > the advowsons and franchises; granting also that the lands which dame
- > Alianore widow of Sir Richard son of John Fitz Marmaduk and Dame Ida de
- > Neville hold in dower of the lands which were of Sir Richard, which
- > after their decease ought to remain to the grantor and his heirs, shall
- > remain to the said eart for life; remainder to the grantor and his
- > heirs. Witnesses, Sir William Touchet, Sir Adam de Hudleston, Sir
- > John de Beek, Sir Odard Heroun, Sir Robert de Byncestre, Sir Gascelin
- > Deyvill, Sir Begon Bayhouse. Pountfret. XXX, 136v." END OF QUOTE.
- > [Reference: Oliver, Northumberland & Durham Deeds (Newcastle-upon-Tyne
- > Recs. Comm. 7) (1929): 287].
- >
- > Ida de Roos has no known descendants. However, there are many New
- > World immigrants who descend from her 2nd and 3rd husbands, Robert de
- > Neville and John Fitz Marmaduke, by their previous marriages to other
- > women. Further particulars of all of these families can be found in my
- > forthcoming book, Magna Carta Ancestry.

>
> Best always, Douglas Richardson, Salt Lake City, Utah
>
> Website: www.royalancestry.net
>
>
>
> -----
> Do you Yahoo!?
> Yahoo! Small Business - Try our new resources site!

Brendan Wilson

unread,
Apr 16, 2005, 12:09:57 AM

to

A Genealogical & Heraldic History of Commoners of GB & Ireland
By John Burke 1836
Page 10 Vol 2

Robert de Neville

.....In 1266 we find him governor of Bamborough although in the interim he had joined the standard of the Barons. He m. Ida daughter of Roger de Bertram, Lord of Mitford, and had a son, (Robert who wedded Mary, elder daughter and co heir of Ralph Fitz Ranulph, Lord of Middleham)
He died 1282 and was s, by his grandson Ranulph de Neville

Hope this helps

Brendan Wilson
NZ

On 12 Apr 2005 03:57:52 -0700, "Douglas Richardson

royala...@msn.com" <royala...@msn.com> wrote:

>Dear Newsgroup:

>

>Complete Peerage 2 (1912): 158-162 (sub Bertram) and 9 (1936): 495-486

>(sub Neville) includes well written accounts of the the life histories

>of Roger Bertram (living 1272), of Mitford, Northumberland, and Robert

>de Neville, Knt. (died 1282), of Raby, Durham, the first and second >husbands respectively of a certain woman named Ida, whose parentage is >not stated by Complete Peerage. Hedley's Northumberland Families

>(1968): 224-229 provides good evidence which indicates that Ida was >the daughter of Robert de Roos, of Wark, Northumberland (died c. 1269).

> Ida's father, Robert de Roos, is commonly thought to have married

>Christine Bertram, sister of Ida's husband, Roger Bertram. However,

>Hedley shows that Christine Bertram actually married Ida's brother,

>William de Roos. Thus a Roos brother and sister married a Bertram >brother and sister.

>

>Following the death of her 2nd husband, Sir Robert de Neville, Complete

>Peerage indicates that Ida de Roos married (3rd) before 8 May 1285 Sir

>John Fitz Marmaduke, of Horden, Durham. Complete Peerage sub Betram

>and Neville gives no death date for Ida. Rather, in both accounts,

>Complete Peerage states only that Ida was living 18 May 1315.

>

>The following charter proves that Ida (de Roos) (Bertram) (de Neville)

>Fitz Marmaduke was still living as late as 17 August 1320, she having

>by that time survived her third husband, Sir John Fitz Marmaduke:

>

>"Sunday after the Assumption, 14 Edward II (17 August 1320).

>Charter indented (in French) of Robert de Holande, Knt., granting to >her very dear lord, Sir Thomas Earl of Lancaster and Leicester, for >life, the manors of Hordene, Silkesworth, Carlebury and Ulneby and all >other lands which he has in the counties of Durham and Sadberg, with

>the advowsons and franchises; granting also that the lands which dame

>Alianore widow of Sir Richard son of John Fitz Marmaduk and Dame Ida de

>Neville hold in dower of the lands which were of Sir Richard, which >after their decease ought to remain to the grantor and his heirs, shall >remain to the said eart for life; remainder to the grantor and his >heirs. Witnesses, Sir William Touchet, Sir Adam de Hudleston, Sir

 >John de Beek, Sir Odard Heroun, Sir Robert de Byncestre, Sir Gascelin
 >Deyvill, Sir Begon Bayhouse. Pountfret. XXX, 136v." END OF QUOTE.
 >[Reference: Oliver, Northumberland & Durham Deeds (Newcastle-upon-Tyne >Recs. Comm. 7) (1929): 287].
 >
 >Ida de Roos has no known descendants. However, there are many New >World immigrants who descend from her 2nd and 3rd husbands, Robert de >Neville and John Fitz Marmaduke, by their previous marriages to other >women. Further particulars of all of these families can be found in my >forthcoming book, Magna Carta Ancestry.
 >
 >Best always, Douglas Richardson, Salt Lake City, Utah
 >
 >Website: www.royalancestry.net

Tim Powys-Lybbe

unread,

Apr 16, 2005, 5:07:49 AM

to

In message of 16 Apr, Brendan Wilson <wils...@paradise.net.nz> wrote:

> A Genealogical & Heraldic History of Commoners of GB & Ireland
 > By John Burke 1836
 >
 > Page 10 Vol 2
 >
 > Robert de Neville
 >
 >In 1266 we find him governor of Bamborough although in the > interim he had joined the standard of the Barons. He m. Ida daughter > of Roger de Bertram, Lord of Mitford, and had a son, (Robert who > wedded Mary, elder daughter and co heir of Ralph Fitz Ranulph, Lord of > Middleham)

Unfortunately this account in Burke's Commoners was almost certainly not researched by Burke. The later research in Complete Peerage, Vol IX, pp. 495-6 gives what is now regarded as the correct details of Robert's wives. The mother of his son is unknown and his second wife Ida was previously the wife of Roger Bertram.

> He died 1282 and was s, by his grandson Ranulph de Neville

--

Tim Powys-Lybbe t...@powys.org

For a miscellany of bygones: <http://powys.org>

☐ Reply all

☐ Reply to author

☐ Forward